The joints at places where the shear force is the minimum and these shall be straight and at right angles to the direction of main reinforcement.

In case of columns, the joints shall be horizontal and 10 to 15 cm below the bottom of the beam running into the column head. The portion of the column between the stepping off level and the top of the slab shall be concreted with the beam.

When stopping the concrete on a vertical plane in slabs and beams and horizontal surfaces for R.C. wall, an approved stop-board shall be placed with necessary slots reinforcement bars or any other obstruction to pass the bars freely without bending. The construction joints shall be keyed by providing a triangular or trapezoidal fillet nailed on the stop-board. Inclined or feather joints shall not be permitted. Any concrete cement slurry flowing through the joints of stop-board shall be removed soon after the initial set. When concrete is stopped on a horizontal plane, the surfaces shall be roughened and cleaned after the initial set.

2.18. Filling of Joints

When the work has to be resumed, the joint shall be thoroughly cleaned with a wire brush and loose particles removed. A coat of 2.75 kg of cement per square meter shall then be applied on the roughened surface before fresh concrete is laid.

2.19. Intervals during Concreting

The time table for the deposition of concrete is to be so arranged that no face of concrete shall be left more than 20 minutes before concrete is deposited against it. Pauses for meals, changes of shifts, etc. and the distribution of the concrete among the positions where work may be proceeding simultaneously must, therefore, be carefully organized to ensure that the above mentioned interval is not exceeded.

2.20. Sloping beds not allowed

Unless otherwise specified, no peripheral slopes will be allowed in connection with deposition of concrete. Where is necessary for any reason to terminate a bed, such termination must be against timber forms, stepped as required and as directed by the Engineer-in-Charge's Representative.

2.21. Concrete not to be disturbed

Care is to be taken not to disturb the concrete by direct or indirect loading, striking of shutters or otherwise, until has hardened sufficiently.

2.22. Curing

After the concrete has begun to harden i.e. about 1 to 2 hours after its laying, it shall be protected from quick drying with moist gunny bags, sand or any other material approved by the EIC/his Representative.

After 24 hours of laying of concrete, the surfaces shall be cured by flooding with water of minimum 25mm depth, or by covering with wet absorbent material. The curing shall be done for a minimum period of 14 days.

2.23. Faulty Work

All concrete surfaces shall be reasonable smooth and true to level. Any defects which require repair when forms are removed, such as, bulges due to movement of forms, ridges at form joints, honeycombed areas, damage resulting from the stripping of forms, and bolt holes etc. shall be carried out with no extra cost. Bulges and ridges are to be removed by careful chipping or tooling and the surface shall then be rubbed with a gridding stone. Honeycombed and other defective area's must be chipped out, the edges being cut as straight as possible and perpendicular to the surface, or preferable slightly undercut to provide a key at the edge of the patch. No concrete surfaces shall be painted with cement wash. No construction or repairs to faulty work shall be done without the permission of the Engineer-in-Charge.

2.24. Form Work

Form work shall include all temporary or permanent forms of moulds required for forming the concrete which is cast-in-situ, together with all temporary construction required for their support.

Form work shall be of rigid construction true to shape and dimensions. It shall be strong enough to withstand the dead and live loads and forces causes by ramming and vibrations of concrete and other incidental loads, imposed upon it during and after casting of concrete. It shall be made sufficiently rigid by using adequate number of ties and braces. Screw jacks or hard board wedges, wherever required shall be provided to make up any settlement in the form work either before or during the placing of concrete.

Form shall be so constructed as to be removable in sections in the designed sequence without damaging the surface of concrete or disturbing other section. All form work should be easy to strip after concreting and form work must be erected into this consideration in mind. Case shall be taken to see that no piece is keyed into the concrete. Details of form work shall be properly worked out and got approved from the Engineer-in-Charge. The completed form work shall be inspected and approved by the Engineer-in-Charge before the reinforcement bars are placed in position.

2.25. Materials for Form Work

Form work shall be of steel, plywood sound and properly seasoned timbers, or any other material as approved by the Engineer-in-Charge. Timber used for form work shall be easily workable with nails without splitting, and of light weight. It shall be stiff and strong enough to avoid undue deflection when loaded; be stable and not liable to warp when exposed to Sun and Rain or wetted during concreting. It shall not be so soft as to get damaged easily on the contact faces under normal condition of erecting forms, fixing steel and pouring concrete.

2.26. Propping and Centering

Props used for centering shall be of steel, timber posts, ballies or any other material approved by the Engineer's Representative. In no case shall ballies be of diameter less than 100 mm measured at mid length and 80 mm at thin end. Maximum permissible spacing shall be 1.2 meters centre to centre. Ballies shall rest squarely on wooden sole plates of 40 mm thickness and minimum bearing area of 0.1 square meter laid either on ground or on 40 x 40 cm brick masonry pillars in mortar of height not exceeding 40 cm. Double wedges shall further be provided between the sole plates and the wooden props so as to facilitate tightening and easing of shuttering without jarring the concrete. In case brick masonry pillars of adequate section are used instead of props, wooden sole plates shall be provided at the top of pillars and double wedges inserted between the sole plate and the bottom of shuttering.

In case of structures with two or more floors, the weight of concrete, centering and shuttering of any upper floor being cast shall be suitably supported on the floor below the topmost floor already cast. In such cases normal props as per above clause shall be provided for supporting the floor to be cast on the topmost floor already cast. Suitable supports below this floor shall be provided preferably to come below the props of the upper floor. Planks at top ends of these props shall be provided so as to give even distribution of load.

Form work and concreting of upper floor shall not be done until concrete of floor has set for atleast 14 days. In case of balconies and anti-lever beams coming one above the other, the members being cast shall be supported by props on two floors below the floor where initial supporting has been done. Ballies shall rest squarely on wooden sole plates of 40mm thickness and with minimum bearing areas of 0.1 square meter.

The details of form work stated shall be applicable for spans of 4.50 meters and height upto 3.50 meters. In case any of these limits is exceeded the form work shall be properly designed for the self weight, weight of reinforcement, weight of fresh concrete, various live loads imposed during the construction process (such as workmen and equipment). Dumping of concrete, movement of construction equipment and action of the wind may produce lateral forces which must be resisted by the form work to prevent lateral failure for which suitable horizontal as well as diagonal bracings shall be provided. The permissible stresses in bending, buckling load of props, permissible deflection of shuttering should not be exceeded. In case the height of centering exceeds 3.50 meters, the props may be provided in multi-stages.

Before the concreting is started, the props and wedges shall be thoroughly checked to see that these are intact and take suitable action in case these are loose. While the concreting is in progress, at least one carpenter shall be readily available at site. The carpenter shall keep a constant watch on the props and take immediate remedial measures, as soon as any of this get loosened. Care shall be taken that props and wedges do not get loose for a minimum period required for the form work to be stripped as per IS: 456.

2.27. Shuttering

The shuttering shall have smooth and even surface and its joints shall not permit leakage of cement grout. Ply board shuttering material used shall be well seasoned, free from projecting nails, splits or other defects that may mark the cement surface of concrete. It shall not be so dry as to absorb water from concrete and swell and bulge, nor so green or wet as to shrink after erection.

The timber shall be accurately sawn and planed on the sides and the surface coming in contact with concrete. Wooden form work with metal sheet lining or steel plates stiffened by steel angles shall also be permitted. Where metal forms are used, all bolts and nuts shall be counter sunk and well ground to provide a smooth plain surface. The chamfers, beveled edges and molding shall be made in the form work itself. Opening for fan clamps and other fittings connected with services shall be provided in the shuttering as directed by the Engineer-in-Charge/his Representative.

As far as practicable, clamps shall be used to hold the forms together. Where use of nails is unavailable minimum number of nails shall be used and these shall be left projecting so that they can be easily withdrawn. Use of double headed nails shall be preferred.

2.28. Surface Treatment for Shuttering

The surfaces of timber shuttering that would come in contact with concrete shall be well wetted and coated with soap solution, raw linseed oil, form oil of approved manufacture or any other approved material (such as polythene/polyethylene sheets) to prevent adhesion of concrete to form work. Soap solution, for the purpose shall be prepared by dissolving yellow soap in water to get the consistency of paint. Inside surfaces of forms shall be thoroughly cleaned before application of any of the materials mentioned above. Release agents shall be applied strictly in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions and shall not be allowed to come in contact with any reinforcement. Reuse of the shuttering shall be permitted only after the inside surface has been thoroughly cleaned in the manner described above.

Contractor shall give the Engineer's Representative due notice before placing any concrete in the forms to permit him to inspect and accept the form work as to its strength, alignment and general fitness, but such inspection shall not relieve the Contractor of his responsibility for safety of men, machinery, materials and for result obtained.

2.29. Camber

Suitable camber shall be provided in horizontal members of structures, specially in long spans to counteract the effects of deflection. The form work shall be so assembled as to provide for such camber. The camber for beams and slabs shall be 4 mm per meter (in 250) or as directed by the Engineer's Representative, so as to offset the subsequent deflection. For cantilevers, the camber at free end shall be $1/50^{\text{th}}$ of the projected length or as directed by the Engineer-in-Charge/his Representative.

2.30. Special Provision

Wherever the concreting of narrow members is required to be carried out within shutters of considerable depth, temporary openings in the sides of the shutters shall, if so directed by the Engineer-in-Charge/his Representative be provided to facilitate the pouring and consolidation of the concrete. Small temporary openings shall be provided as necessary at the bottom of shutters of walls and deep beams to permit the expulsion of rubbish etc.

2.31. Removal of Form Work

The form work shall be so removed as not to cause any damage to concrete due to shock or vibration. In a slab and beam construction, sides of beam shall be stripped first, then the under sides of slab and lastly the underside of the beam.

Form work must be designed that these can be stripped in the order required i.e.

- a) Shutters to vertical (non-bearings) faces e.g. column boxes, beam sides, wall forms.
- b) Shutters forming soffits to slabs, horizontal and inclined which carry only light load e.g. slabs, roofs, floors and canopies etc.
- c) Soffits shutters carry heavy load e.g. beams and girder bottoms.
- d) All surfaces of R.C.C. structures shall be roughened by hacking on faces which is to receive plaster or where it is to joint with brick masonry wall after the shuttering is removed, taking care to remove the laitance completely without disturbing the concrete and shall be included in the rates.

The whole of the form work should be planned and a definite scheme of operation worked out. In no circumstances should forms be struck until the concrete reaches a strength of atleast twice the stress to which the concrete may be subjected at the time of striking but not before the period as mentioned in IS: 456 where ordinary Portland Cement is used. Where possible the form work should be left longer as it would assist curing. Forms should be eased carefully in order to prevent the load being suddenly transferred to concrete. The removal of centering and shuttering to be done to the approval of the Engineer-in-Charge.

2.32. Shuttering for Exposed Concrete Surfaces

Particular care shall be taken about the quality of workshop and execution of the form work and concrete, as under no circumstances any repair work of patching up shall be allowed. The pattern of the boards and the proposed lifts of concrete shall be as shown in the drawing which shall be incorporated, by the Contractor in his shutter design drawings for approval of the Engineer-in-Charge. The joints between boards or panels, which are not to be shown, shall be painted with patching plaster or otherwise field or course to make the surface free of all marks. After manufacture and before fixing, each form work shall be got approved by the Engineer-in-Charge/his Representative.

Construction joints shall be positioned as indicated in the drawings or as directed by the Engineer-in-Charge. To achieve this, plywood of maximum size available in the market shall be procure so that the number of joints in the plywood in a shuttering board in any lift is minimum.

2.33. Discoloration

Formation of blotches and stains due to detachment of formwork panel from the concrete when adjacent portion in the same lift is still adhering shall not be allowed to occur and for this purpose all shutters shall be struck off at the same time. Use of old and new plywood in the same level/face shall be totally avoided to get rid of discoloration.

2.34. Nailing

Nailing shall be done carefully using hammers with smooth and well-dressed heads to prevent marring of the form surfaces. Box nails shall be used when required on concrete surface and shall be placed in neat pattern.

2.35. Mould Oil

Non-staining form oil or coating or release agent shall be used for forms to prevent un-even colouring of the concrete. Care shall be taken that the mould oil is applied sparingly and evenly and is kept out of contact with the reinforcement and do not accumulate at bottom of the form work.

Form shall not be coated with any material that will interfere with subsequent wetting of surfaces to be cured or with the functioning of sealing compounds used for curing.

Thinner oil shall be used for better surface finish. Brushes shall be very clean and the Engineer's Representative shall be at liberty to ask for application of the oil by; spraying if considered unsatisfactory otherwise.

2.36. Ties

Use of ties shall be very much restricted and as far as practicable form work shall be supported without the ties by propping against staging erected firmly for the purpose.

2.37. Measures for Providing Cover to Exposed Concrete

Care shall be taken that the porous surface on the precast concrete blocks is not visible when the shuttering is removed. Any steel bar supports used at concrete surfaces to be exposed shall be galvanized or plastic coated to prevent rusting. It is preferable that entire bar support in such locations shall be made of plastic or other nonrusting material. Bar chairs shall be strong enough and spaced closely enough so that they are not excessively loaded.

2.38. Erection Practice

The form work at corners shall be usually tight and braced so that no movement occurs and no bleeding takes place due to slightest opening of the corner. Corners shall be sharp and straight so that leakage through the forms is prevented. The meeting surfaces of the forms shall be reduced to minimum bearing areas to improve tightness of the joints.

Boxes, moulds, rustication strips or any insert attached to the main forms shall be nailed as lightly as possible so that they may be pulled out, pulled loose from the forms during the stripping operation and should not remain in the concrete.

2.39. Stripping

The formwork shall be struck by using suitable approved methods taking care that the surface of the concrete is not damaged in any way as under no circumstances any repair of exposed concrete surface shall be allowed.

2.40. Clean up

After forms are stripped all materials to be reused shall be thoroughly cleaned. All nails shall be pulled from the plywood board and no nail shall be bent over by hammering against the face of the material if reuse of forms is planned. Holes board through sheathing for forms ties shall be plugged by driving in common corks or foamed plastics. Patching plaster may also be used to fill small holes. After cleaning and before re-fixing each formwork, either of plywood or metal mould shall be got approved by the EIC.

Plywood boards shall be so used so as to maintain quality of the exposed surface. However if in the opinion of the Engineer's Representative any particular board has become unsatisfactory for use at any stage the board will be rejected.

3.0 Reinforcement

Preferably, bars of full length shall be used and shall not be straightened in a manner that will injure the material. Overlapping of bars, where necessary shall be done as per Indian Standard and as directed by the Engineer's Representative. The overlaps shall be staggered for different bars and located at points where neither shear nor bending moment is maximum. In case of mild steel, at the ends, hooks shall be provided and in case of deformed bars hooks are not required.

3.3. Placing in Position

Reinforcement bars shall be placed in position as shown in the drawings. The bars crossing one another shall be tied together at every intersection with 18 S.W.G. annealed steel wire to make the skeleton of the steel work rigid so that reinforcement does not get displaced during the deposition of concrete. Tack welding shall also be permitted in lieu of binding with steel wire if approved by the EIC.

The bars shall be kept in position by the following methods:

- a) In case of beam and slab construction, precast cover blocks in cement mortar 1:2 (1 cement : 2 coarse sand) about 4 x 4 cm section and of thickness equal to the specified cover shall be placed between the bars and shuttering, so as to secure and maintain the requisite cover of concrete from reinforcement.
- b) In case of cantilevered and double reinforced beams or slab and which distances between the horizontal bars shall be maintained by providing chair bars or support bars of steel at required spacing to avoid staging.
- c) In case of columns and walls the vertical bars shall be kept in position by means of timber templates with slots accurately cut in them: or with block of cement mortar (1:2) suitably tied to the reinforcement.

3.4. Approval of Reinforcement

The Contractor must obtain the approval of the Engineer-in-Charge to the reinforcement, when placed, before any concrete is deposited on the shutters.

3.5. Water Proofing Compound

Manufacture: Particle boards having super fine and closed surface with high face strength and steep density gradient across the thickness is used for making pre laminated particle boards. Impregnated base papers rich in a synthetic resin are placed on either side of the particle board and the assembly is taken inside a short cycle single opening lamination press or a multi-day light press. Under heat and pressure the resin flows and forms a permanent bond with particle board.

The top surface of impregnated paper comes in contact with special surface chromium plates or steel caul plates and takes the impression of surface finish of these cauls. Hot boards are extracted out of the short cycle press and cooled in air, whereas cooling of boards is done inside the dress in multi day light type. Care should be taken to keep cycle time slow in the press to avoid heat penetration to the centre of the board edge.

The impregnated over lay paper may be used by placing it over the impregnated base paper (IBP) on one surface while using a normal IBP on the other surface and pressure. The impregnated overlay becomes transparent after pressing. Such boards are used for high surface abrasion application.

In case of finished foil particle boards, the finished foil is pasted on both surfaces of particle board after spreading suitable synthetic glue on board's surface and passing the assembly in a roller press or a flat press under the influence of pressure and /or heat depending on the type of binder used.

Finish: The finish of the paper over laid board depends on the surface of caul plates used. Common surface finishes in use are glossy, matt textured (soft, Swede, wood pore and leather), etc. The surface finish of the foil finished boards depends on the original finish of the foil used.

Float Glass

The glass shall be clear float glass and should be approved by the Engineer in Charge. It shall be clear, float transparent and free from cracks subject to allowable defects. The float glass shall conform to the IS 14900.

Thickness: The thickness of float glass shall depend on the size of panel. The tolerance in thickness shall be as under:

TABLE

Nominal Thickness (in mm)	Tolerance (in mm)
4.0	± 0.3
5.0	± 0.3
6.0	± 0.3
8.0	± 0.6
